CHAIRMAN'S Note

"Faith is the bird that feels the light when the dawn is still dark."

— Rabindranath Tagore

Dear Friends,

There are times when we can see the results of our efforts quite clearly. At other times, progress is less visible. We work towards something, make adjustments, overcome small setbacks and keep going, often without knowing exactly when things will fall into place.

As the year moves towards its close, I find this thought particularly relevant. It is easy to measure progress through milestones achieved, projects completed and targets met. These are important, but much of what makes such achievements possible happens quietly, along the way. It lies in the consistency with which we approach our responsibilities, the care we bring to our work and the many small decisions that gradually move an idea forward.

In our Group, we work across different sectors, each with its own challenges and measures of progress. Yet, there is a common thread that connects them: the belief that what we do should make a meaningful difference to the lives of people. That difference does not always become visible overnight. It takes time, sustained effort and, above all, the faith to keep building.

Perhaps that is what we should remember as we look towards the final weeks of the year. Not every effort yields an immediate result, and not every worthwhile endeavour follows a straight path. What matters is that we remain committed to what we set out to do, learn from the journey and continue to move forward with confidence.

As always, I am grateful for the many contributions, large and small, that make our collective journey possible. Each one adds to what we are building together.
