CHAIRMAN'S Note

> "Strength does not come from physical capacity. It comes from an indomitable will.
>
> — Mahatma Gandhi

Dear friends,

As the vibrancy of Durga Puja and Navaratri gently transitions into the warm glow of Diwali and the reflective days of late autumn, the season leaves behind an enduring lesson on the many forms strength can take. Maa Durga, invoked through the unified resolve of the gods, stands as a timeless reminder that true power lies not merely in what we possess, but in the collective spirit and courage with which we meet what lies ahead.

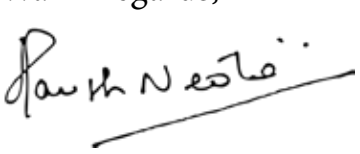

In our everyday lives, strength rarely announces itself with clamour; it reveals itself in quiet, steadfast ways. It is the patience to see a challenging assignment through to completion, the humility to acknowledge and learn from missteps, the resolve to chart unfamiliar courses, and the generosity of helping a colleague in moments of doubt.

Every project and professional milestone tests our resolve. Strategic plans may encounter unforeseen turns, and clarity may take time to emerge. In such moments, the grace of our response matters just as much as resolving the impediment itself. Keeping a steady perspective, drawing wisdom from setbacks, and moving forward with purpose is often what bridges the gap between effort and enduring achievement.

The festive cycle also underscores that no meaningful strength is nurtured in isolation. The essence of the celebrations we have just shared is, at its heart, about collaboration and shared energy. We find confidence in those who walk beside us, just as our own commitment reassures others.

Wishing you and your loved ones peace, warmth, and continued fulfillment in the days ahead.

Warm regards,

Harshavardhan Neotia
Chairman, Ambuja Neotia

A New House of Design-Led Hospitality

Ambuja Neotia introduces AltAir House – IHCL SeleQtions in Kolkata and Siliguri

Ambuja Neotia's hospitality journey enters a new chapter with AltAir House – IHCL SeleQtions, a luxury boutique hospitality brand with design at its heart. Launched in Kolkata and Siliguri, each House brings together architecture, art, thoughtfully curated cuisine and spaces for leisure and celebrations, shaped by the character of its location.
The two properties introduce a growing family, with four more AltAir Houses announced in Raichak, Kalimpong, Digha and Lataguri.

In Kolkata, the House finds its expression in Bengal's many worlds. Set amid the greenery of Ecospace Business Park in New Town, it draws on the region's landscapes, cultural traditions and creative spirit to shape the experience of a stay.

KOLKATA
Bengal, interpreted anew

Designed by Abin Chaudhuri of Abin Design Studio, the House unfolds across 42 individually designed rooms and suites. Contributions from over 30 artists give its many narratives a fresh expression.

The references travel from Kolkata's racecourse to Birbhum's red earth, from life along the ghats to the waterways and mangroves of the Sundarbans. Art and design become a way of encountering Bengal, with each room offering a different perspective.

Bengal's stories, continued at the table

The experience continues at Esplanade, the all-day dining restaurant, where regional flavours meet global favourites. Its specially curated Rannaghar menu gives Bengali cuisine a distinct presence, making the House an inviting address for a leisurely lunch or dinner as well as a stay.

An evening welcome at AltAir House, Kolkata

As evening arrives, The Velvet Vault brings crafted cocktails and conversation into an Art Deco setting. Upstairs, the rooftop swimming pool and gym offer another way to enjoy the House, with time for a swim, a workout or a pause under the open sky.

For occasions that bring people together, Rivoli and Chevron provide settings for celebrations and business gatherings. An outdoor deck adds room to spend time in the fresh air.

AltAir House - IHCL SeleQtions, Siliguri

Design in dialogue with nature

In Siliguri, the House opens into beautifully curated gardens. Buildings look towards lawns and greenery, inviting a walk before you have even settled in.

Located within Uttorayon Township, AltAir House – IHCL SeleQtions, Siliguri draws its character from a city where cultures and journeys meet.

An inviting room with a connection to the outdoors

A Dialogue of Many

60 rooms & suites
Uttorayon, Siliguri

Bengal's traditions, Nepali cultural influences and the communities that call Siliguri home provide the starting point for its "Dialogue of Many".

The architecture has a playful informality. Buildings come together in an open arrangement, balanced by clean forms drawing on Buddhist influences. Across 60 rooms and suites, soft pastels, natural tones and cultural references carry this approach indoors. The gardens and spaces between buildings are as much a part of the design as the interiors.

AltAir House - IHCL SeleQtions, Siliguri

The pleasure of time together

Dining

At Veranda, Bengali specialities and a curated selection of global flavours invite guests to gather around the table. Camellia Supper Club brings a different mood to the evening, with a multi-cuisine menu, drinks and conversation.

Leisure

Recreation is part of the experience too. Tennis and basketball bring friends together outdoors, while carrom and pool make room for friendly competition indoors. A swimming pool and gym offer time to refresh and recharge.

Celebration

Two banquet halls and an expansive lawn welcome weddings, family celebrations and corporate gatherings. Together, the indoor and outdoor event spaces can accommodate up to 1,200 guests.

Four more AltAir Houses have been announced, taking this approach to the river, hills, coast and forest. Each setting offers a new starting point for architecture, interiors, cuisine and experiences.

As the family grows, each House will have its own story to tell, connected by Ambuja Neotia's belief that thoughtful design can enrich the way people experience a place.
