

Chairman's Message

September ushers in the mellow charm of autumn — a season of anticipation and celebration. As the month unfolds, it brings with it a series of occasions that remind us of knowledge, creation, gratitude, and togetherness.

The month began with Teacher's Day, honouring those who act as bridges between the collective wisdom of humanity and the curious mind of every learner. A true teacher does more than impart facts; they nurture character, ignite curiosity, and inspire perseverance — shaping individuals who carry forward the pursuit of truth.

In the south, the arrival of Onam painted the month with hues of harvest and homecoming. More than a festival, Onam is a philosophy — of equality, harmony, and gratitude for nature's abundance. The Onam Sadhya, where people of all backgrounds gather to share a meal, stands as a timeless reminder of unity and belonging.

September also holds National Engineer's Day and Viswakarma Puja — moments to reflect on the spirit of innovation, craftsmanship, and the creative force that builds civilizations. They honour not just the science of making but also the artistry behind every structure and system that sustains modern life.

And as the month closes, Bengal prepares to embrace its grandest celebration — Durga Puja. The sound of dhak, the fragrance of shiuli, and the sight of pandals remind us that Navaratri is not just a festival, but an emotion. It celebrates the triumph of good over evil, but equally, it celebrates the joy of community, artistry, and shared faith.

In all these moments, September quietly teaches us that festivals are more than rituals — they are lessons in humanity, in resilience, and in the values that bind us together.

Wish you all the joy of being together with your loved ones.
Have a blessed Durga Puja and Navaratri!

Building Future Tech Leaders

This month, our Corporate IT team hosted a full-day session at Ecospace for 'technology' students whose higher studies are supported by our CSR department. Guided by Chief Information Officer – IT, Kripadyuti Sarkar, the workshop titled "Corporate IT Functions" introduced participants to the software and practices that power day-to-day office operations and safeguard systems and data.

The students — ranging from B.Tech to BCA, enrolled at institutions such as NIT Durgapur, IIT Kharagpur and other government engineering colleges — come from economically stressed backgrounds across districts like Bankura, North 24 Parganas, Howrah and the Sundarbans. With strong academic records but limited exposure to real-world corporate IT, they experienced ERP, cybersecurity, databases, CRM applications, networking and more first-hand from our seasoned professionals. For many, it was a dream-come-true glimpse into how large-scale IT functions actually work.
